

I have reviewed the information collected by the ARRL on the levels of interference caused by the BPL service trials and am appalled. How can we trust the electrical power companies when they claim they are within RFI limits when in the same breath they are asking for the limits to be reduced? As an amateur radio operator who is quite active in supporting local emergency services, this will greatly reduce my abilities to support those agencies.